Christina Zilber

OCCUPATION: Founder and creative director of Jouer Cosmetics, a makeup line aimed at women who want a natural, simple look. BACKSTORY: Raised in San Francisco, the daughter of the late media mogul Marshall Naify (and niece of tastemaker Dodie Rosekrans) started out as a model, actress and film producer before launching Jouer in 2004. She splits her time between her homes in Beverly Hills, Malibu and Paris with her two young children, Amélie (pictured) and Emmanuel.

AVOCATION: Board member of the U.S. Fund for UNICEF.

PERSONAL STYLE: "Feminine, sophisticated and comfortable."

FASHION RULE: "I don't want to look too 'lady who lunches.' A little mystery is always more interesting." TRUSTED

ESSENTIALS: Michael Kors sheath dresses, I Pezzi Dipinti cashmere cardigans, Manolo Blahnik sandals. BEAUTY TIP:

"Rosy cheeks do more to hide dark undereye circles than any concealer." FAVORITE SHOPS:

Montaigne Market, in Paris, for its well-edited selection of clothing; Maison K, in Santa Barbara, for fine furnishings and antiques. ULTIMATE LUXURIES:

Kendall Conrad's crocodile and snakeskin handbags; JAR and Buccellati jewelry. WHAT SHE'S

WEARING: Her own jewelry, Andrew Gn blouse, Tracy Feith skirt and Manolo Blahnik shoes.
